Acting Chairman of Progressive National Committee Declares Convention Did Not Give the Committee Authority to Deliver the Progressive Organization to the Republican Candidate.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Matthew Hale, of Boston, acting chairman of the Progressive national committee, today made public a report to the delegates to the recent Progressive national convention relative to the endorsement of the Republican candidate by the Progressive national committee.

In his report, Mr. Hale gives a detailed summary of what took place between June 16, when the convention authorized the national committee to "fill vacancies" and June 26, when the national committee endorsed the Republican candidate. He quotes fully from telegrams and letters sent prior to the meeting of the national committee, and from the official records of the meeting. He closes with the following resume of the facts and of his conclusions based on those facts:

First—You as delegates to the Progressive national convention made clear that you were not in favor of surrendering to the Republican party or abandoning the Progressive party.

Second—When you gave the Progressive national committee the right to fill vacancies you did not intend to give it the right to deliver the Progressive party organization to the Republican candidate or to repudiate your candidate for vice president, Col. John E. Parker, whom you unanimously nominated in your convention.

Third—In most states, prior to the action of the national committee endorsing the Republican candidate, neither the delegates to the national convention nor the members of the state organizations were called together by national committees for consultation of action, action on the part of the state organizations prior to the endorsement of the Republican candidate by the national committee was expressly discouraged by the chairman of the executive committee of the national committee, George W. Perkins.

Contrary To Wishes.

Fourth—In Alabama, Michigan, New Jersey, Tennessee and Virginia delegates to the national convention or the state organizations had officially expressed their opposition to the endorsement of the Republican candidate. In spite of these official expressions of opposition, the national committee from Alabama, Michigan, New Jersey and Virginia voted for the endorsement and the proxy of the national committee from Louisiana voted to believe that the state organizations were opposed to the endorsement of the Republican candidate, yet the national committee from those states voted for the endorsement and against any delay for the purpose of consulting the state organizations or the delegates to the national convention.

Fifth—In Minnesota and Louisiana the national committee had every reason to believe that the state organizations were opposed to the endorsement of the Republican candidate, yet the national committee from those states voted for the endorsement and against any delay for the purpose of consulting the state organizations or the delegates to the national convention.

Sixth—In Maryland and New York there was a reasonable ground for uncertainty as to what the delegates to the national convention or the state organizations wanted in regard to the endorsement, yet the national committee from those states voted for the endorsement and against any delay for the purpose of consulting the delegates to the national convention or the state organizations.

Reputed In Indiana.

Seventh—In Indiana the state organization has officially repudiated the action of the national committee in endorsing the Republican candidate, but the national committee voted for the endorsement and against any delay for the purpose of consulting the state organization or the delegates to the national convention.

Eighth—The endorsement of the Republican candidate by the Progressive national committee was made without authority either from you, who represent the Progressive party nationally, or from the state organizations which represent the Progressive party in the different states, and without any attempt to get that authority.

Ninth—The endorsement of the Republican candidate for president by the Progressive national committee violated one of the fundamental principles of the Progressive party. The Progressive platform of 1912 provided that the selection of party candidates should be made after consultation with the rank and file of the party, and in accordance with their wishes and should not be made by a small group of leaders in accordance with their own individual wishes and desires, without consultation with the rank and file of the party and in some instances directly contrary to the expressed wishes of the rank and file. By securing that principle in their platform, Progressives hoped to prevent a recurrence of the steam roller tactics employed by the Republican national committee in 1912. The action of the Progressive national committee on June 26 blasted these hopes.

Was Not Necessary.

Tenth—The endorsement of the Republican candidate by the Progressive national committee was not necessary even from the point of view of those members who favored the election of the Republican candidate. Col. Roosevelt himself in a statement read to the Progressive national committee, said: "I have expressed, in my letter, views as to what I hope the action of the Progressives would be. I have explicitly refrained and shall refrain, from asking any official action of the Progressive national committee, one way or the other."

Those members of the Progressive national committee who violated the election of the Republican candidate, could have done so as individuals or through the formation of a league, without this violation of one of the fundamental principles of the Progressive party.

Affront to Sincerity of Progressives.

Eleventh—Progressives are interested in progressive principles. They will support no man for president who does not evidence a genuine willingness to practice as well as preach these principles. An attempt by a small group of men to deliver the Progressive party organization to the Republican candidate in a manner which violates one of the most fundamental principles of the Progressive party, is an affront to the sincerity of all Progressives.

"Respectfully submitted,"

"Matthew Hale, acting chairman, Progressive national committee."

CLARINET SOLO TO BE PLAYED AT FORT BLISS SUNDAY NIGHT

TODAY'S AMUSEMENTS

"THE SMUGGLERS."

The Alhambra will show today the latest Famous Player feature, "The Smugglers," a very fine comedy drama, with Donald Brian as the featured player. This feature should have been here Thursday, but was delayed in transit.

Those who had the pleasure of seeing Donald Brian in "The Smugglers," last October, at the Alhambra, or those who saw him on the stage in "The Siren," will rest assured of an unusually fine production.—Adv.

THE UNIQUE.

William Nish in "Notorious Gallacher," or "The Great Trickster," has proven to be one of the best pictures that has been seen in El Paso for a long time. It is different, human and contains plenty of action. "Notorious Gallacher" will be the special attraction at the Unique today and tomorrow and you will not make a mistake if you choose this show as being one that will give perfect satisfaction. Ask anyone who has seen it.—Adv.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AT THE BIJOU.

"Shanghai," one of Charlie Chaplin's best comedies, will be shown at the Bijou today. A Geo. Ade comedy is on the bill also.

Tomorrow, Sunday, Dorothy Gish will be seen in the splendid production, "A Fair-Heard." Don't miss this one Sunday. It is some picture.—Adv.

THE MAJESTIC.

Regardless of the president's Mexico policy, you should attend Eddy E. Brown's show at the Majestic theater. You will enjoy them.—Adv.

TEN WATCHES DISAPPEAR; WOMAN HAS BOY ARRESTED

Martini Rojas, an 18-year-old youth was arrested by city detectives Friday afternoon, following a complaint made to the police by Mrs. Dolores Roy, proprietor of a small store at 367 South El Paso street, that he had taken a number of watches from the store. According to Mrs. Roy, she went to Juarez Friday morning leaving Rojas in charge of the store. When she returned Rojas was gone, she said, and ten watches had disappeared from the display window.

GOOD RAIN AT SWEETWATER.

Sweetwater, Texas, July 8.—A good rain fell here this morning which has greatly benefited the crops.

IS IGNORANCE OR MALICE, SAYS LEA

Mayor Says Figures Published About City's Audit Grossly Exaggerated.

"Whether the gross misrepresentation of facts published in the El Paso Times of July 1, in connection with a report of the audit on the city's records, in which it was made to appear that the city government had spent in one department alone $42,114.35 more than was allowed by the budget, was the result of pure ignorance, or was printed deliberately to do the present administration an injustice, I cannot say," said mayor Tom Lea, Saturday.

Corrects Wrong Impression.

"However, for the purpose of correcting any wrong impression which may have been created, I desire to point out that under the classification of 'protection of life and property,' the following were included: Police, fire and electrical departments, weights and measures, building inspection, plumbing and meter inspection, traffic department and public pound, the total expenditures of which amounted to $175,574.35, as mentioned in the Times."

"The total budget for 'protection of life and property' appropriated by the outgoing administration amounted to $149,660, and not $113,760, as stated in the Times, and excess expenditures amounted to $25,914.35 instead of $62,114.35 as disclosed."

Compares Expenditures.

"For the purpose of comparison, the budget for the year ending March 31, 1915, totaled $117,150, and the expenditures were $145,507.67, an excess of $28,357.67 by the old administration. For the year ending March 31, 1916, the budget amounted to $129,120 and the expenditures were $139,544.35, an excess of $10,424.35."

RAINS STOP TRAVEL OVER TEMPORARY ROAD IN VALLEY

Travel is almost impossible over stretches of the upper valley road where the concrete roadway is being put down by the contractors. The recent rains have made the temporary roads which parallel the main highway almost impassable and, in some places where the road passes over the swampy and boggy ground wagon travel has been abandoned and automobiles have found it impossible to move.

On one stretch of the new concrete road, approximately three miles in length, the contractor has closed the roadway proper and has forced traffic to go along the soft earth road. Since the rains this road has been under water and can no longer be used.

Upper valley residents declare that it is now practically impossible to reach El Paso from points above Canutillo and trade is going to the upper valley towns because of the impassable condition of the road.
